

Image, video & audio workflows

A workflow that takes approved inputs through generation, review and delivery.

For teams turning repeated creative production into a controlled process inside their own tools.

Design. Development. Delivery.

What your business needs.

Build generation agents and connected workflows for images, video and audio, including Seedance and ElevenLabs where the required access is available.

Who this is for

For teams turning repeated creative production into a controlled process inside their own tools.

What we deliver.

A workflow that takes approved inputs through generation, review and delivery.

01 A workflow designed around the required formats and creative inputs

02 Selected model integrations and custom generation agents where needed

03 Brand context, reference handling and human review steps

04 File delivery, version tracking and an operator handover

The work, in detail.

Image generation workflows

Connect brand context, product references, generation, review and export. Define the formats and checks that make an asset usable in its intended placement.

Video workflows

Integrate supported video models, including Seedance where available, into the brief, generation and review process. Handle jobs, status and output delivery.

The work, in detail.

Audio and voice workflows

Connect supported audio tools such as ElevenLabs to the agreed voice or audio production workflow, with approved inputs and delivery formats.

Applied creative agents

Build agents that prepare inputs, call the selected models and organize outputs inside an application or business system. Final review remains part of the production workflow.

A scope built around you.

Creative model workflow

Image, video or audio production connected to review and delivery.

Creative generation agent

A custom agent that operates the agreed production workflow.

From brief to handover.

- 01 Define the outputs, references and intended placements.
- 02 Test available models against representative creative briefs.
- 03 Connect generation, review and delivery in the workflow.
- 04 Run a complete production example and hand over controls.

How we assess the work.

The workflow delivers the agreed file types and dimensions.

Inputs, versions and review decisions remain traceable.

Failed jobs can be inspected and retried without losing the brief.

What shapes the proposal.

Media types and model access

Model access, usage fees and content rights are checked during scoping. This is a workflow implementation offer; ongoing content production is a separate scope.

Brand context and review workflow

Volume, application and delivery integrations

Price, timing and responsibilities are agreed in the proposal. Third-party fees and ongoing support are identified separately.

A clear start. Practical ownership.

What we need from you

Approved brand assets and references, output specifications, account access and a creative reviewer.

What happens next

Bring examples of the content you produce and the process you repeat.
